AMERICAN AND ENGLISH RAILROAD CASES.

A complete collection of all the railroad law as decided by the American, English and Canadian courts of last resort.

Elaborate notes to the more important cases. As a means of giving the working lawyer a full collection of all the cases on the subjects treated, together with able and judicious criticism upon the points presented, they are simply invaluable.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH CORPORATION CASES.

This series presents a full collection of the cases in all the courts of last resort, both in America and England, on the law of private and municipal corporations other than railroad companies.

1.—SCOPE. Among the topics treated of will be the following:

PRIVATE CORPORATIONS.—Agency, Assessments, Building Associations, Dissolution of Corporations, Dividends and Earnings, Ecclesiastical and Religious Corporations, Elections, Mandamus, Officers, Organization, Powers, Stock and Stockholders, Taxation.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.—Assessments, Bonds, Powers, Ordinances, Poor Laws, Streets, Taxes, Intoxicating Liquors, Injuries to Person and Property, etc., etc.

2.—NOTES. The annotations are a special feature, being very full and exhaustive.

These works are issued in monthly Parts, each Part containing not less than 224 pages. Three parts make a complete volume. When Part 3 is published, the Parts are returned to the publisher by the subscriber, and are bound in best law sheep and returned by mail WITHOUT CHARGE FOR BINDING. The subscription price is $4.50 per volume, including NOTES OF CASES.

PREFACE.

THE publishers, realizing how much the usefulness of the work depends upon a thorough Index, have spared no pains to make the INDEX to the Encyclopædia as complete as possible. The demand for a complete key to the work, on the part of our subscribers, has been persistent, and we hope that the present volume, with its successor, which will appear immediately, will completely satisfy this want.

The especial importance of an Index to the Encyclopædia arises from three reasons.

First: The large number of subjects which have necessarily been touched on by many different and widely separated articles. Such subjects, for instance, as "Master and Servant," "Negligence," "Wills," and the like.

The second reason is not less important, viz: the size of a large number of the articles in the Encyclopædia. There are not a few of these which contain more matter than an ordinary text book, for example, the articles on "Taxation," "Homicide," "Wills," "Trusts and Trustees," "Executors and Administrators," etc.

And thirdly, in the Encyclopædia, it has been policy to subdivide the larger articles as much as possible, and in the INDEX, these subdivisions will be gathered under the main title.

A word may not be amiss as to the mechanical arrangement of the subjects. The main titles in the INDEX are printed in large capitals. Subdivisions are represented by small black letters and further by indentation.
